THE CORNER STONE

Of the New St. Joseph's Church of Massillon

Blessed and Placed in Position Sunday Afternoon.

A LARGE PARADE AND IMPRESSIVE CERE

An Able and Eloquent Address by Rt. Rev. Mgr. Thorpe.

HE TALKS ON THE CATHOLIC CHURCH AND PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Bishop Horstmann Speaks to Those Assembled.

Synopsis of the Addresses of These Able Gentlemen-The Exercises of the Day and Matters of Much Interest.

The laying of the corner stone of new St. Joseph's Catholic church at Mas-sillon on Sunday, attracted a large num-ber of strangers to that city. Early in the day the visitors began to arrive and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon fully five thousand strangers were within the walls of the city. The visitors left several hours later and they were hungry and tired. There were many who were unable to get anything to cat and to get a drink was out of the question. The saloons were tightly closed and as most of the restaurants have saloons in connection, people were obliged to go bungry as well as dry. No-thing unusual occurred during the day, There were no fights and the pick pockets who came in anticipation of the big crowd did not secure much booty. This speaks well for Marshal Thomas Hagan and his

Saturday night the Battalion monia bands and monia bands and streetholic secieties met at p. m. at St. Mary's school house and marched to the C., L. & W. depot, where they met Bishop Horstmann and other clergy, escorting them to the residence of Rev. Father Mahon. Sunday morning services were held in St. Joseph's church and over 300 children were confirmed. High mass was observed t 7 a, m. and Low mass was said at 8 by the bishop.

At 12:80 o'clock the first division forme at the Y. M. D. C. room and marched to the W. & L. E. depot to meet the Canton and Navarre societies. The second division met at the Trades Assembly hall and marched to the Ft. Wavne depot to meet the Ancient Order of United Hibernians of North Lawrence and the Atliance ocieties.

The first train to arrive was in the Ft

Wayne from the east, bringing the Alliance societies and delegations from Maximo Louisville and Canton, Over 500 Can-tonians arrived over the Ft. Wayne, Luter tonians arrived over the Ft. Wayne. Later the North Lawrence society arrived and the special train over the Cleveland and Canton and W. & L. E.

Canton turned out in goodly numbers. The parade from the depot was headed by the Grand Army band. Next came the United States flag; Joseph Blechele, Joseph H. Dumoulin, L. N. Ley and Sam'l Becherer, officers of the day; the society banner; Knights of St. John; Leo Branch C. M. B. A.; Catholic Young Men's Association, Fiala's Military Band; U. S. Flag; St. Peter's Society; St. Joseph's So-Fing; St. Peter's Society; St. Joseph's So-ciety and Arnould Branch C. M. B. A. The parade was a large one, all of the orders acquitting themselves with great credit. The line of march and order of the different societies, published in Fri-day's News Democrat was observed. The parade arrived at the church shortly after 3 o'clock and the exercises of the day were commenced. A floor had been placed in the new charch with a raised platform at one end. The church was crowded and one end. The church was crowded and thousands were on the outside hoping to catch the words of the gentlemen who

THE NEW CHURCH.

The new St. Joseph's church will be a handsome structure. It will cost when completed nearly $40,000. It is located at the corner of South and East streets. THE EXERCISES.

Shortly after 3 o'clock the priests and others who were to assist in laying the corner stone proceeded to the plat-form which had been erected. Elegant flowers were on a stand and the usual riul was observed. The church was blessed by the Bishop and the corner stone placed in position. Holy water was sprinkled over the church and the usual solemn ritual of the Catholic church observed.

ADDRESS OF MCR. THORPE,

Rt. Rev. Mgr. Thorpe, of Cleveland, delivered an eloquent and impressive address. His words were listened to with the closest attention by all who could get close enough to hear him. The following is a very brief synopsis of his remarks:

Deer friends—The occasion on which we are today assembled is of no ordinary income or why we have come here, if we believe in the existence of a Supreme Being.

The event that has called us here is of great importance to us all. We are here to do what men inspired of God have done in their day. We are here to do what the earlier Christians did under great difficulties in attempting to raise up to God a temple wherein to worship his holy name. We are her eby solemn ceremony and holy ritual to work out the foundation of a temple and bless the corner stone of a temple in which will be preached "Good will towards men." We preached "Good will towards men." We are here to perform a ceremony simple in itself.

This very day, in this city of industry, there are those who show the same spirit of opposition which has met Catholics ever since they landed. I say advisedly the composition to the composition will be composed to the composition of the composition ever since they landed. I say advisedly that organizations not favorable to the best interests of this country met recently in the Forest City, and this country of Stark and this city of Massillon were not unrepresented. Like poisonous reptiles that they are, these societies rise in a day and sting as they go, but perish with the rising of the morning sun.

We are told that Catholics do not belong to the common wealth. Every thought of a Catholic is love of country to build up the United States above all other countries, for nowhere is the church so free. We are told again that we are enemies of public institutions. We claim a right not a privilege. We are here by right of priority and shall remain. We are here not by conquest but by discovery and shall remain. The man who opposes us shall find Americans and Catholics ready to offer their lives if necessary as a sacrifice. We hear that Catholics are opposed to the public schools. The man who speaks thus speaks without knowledge or misrepresents. We say that so far as the schools of the state go they are excellent. They are defective because they do not have God as a foundation and for Christian people they are not perfect. We pay taxes but cannot open our lips. Nothing I have said is meant for reproach, We are here as Catholics and true Americans caring little for correction. God bless those who were Catholics and true Americans caring little for opposition. God bless those who wor-ship here and those who help in the contruction of this church.

BISHOP HORSTMANN'S ADDRESS.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop Horstmann spoke The Rt. Rev. Bishop Horstmann spoke in substance as follows:
My dear children of Jesus Christ—As Bishop I have bleased the corner stone and shall conclude the ceremony by making a few remarks. I wish to express my gratification to your pastor and all who have congregated here. You have come neighboring congregations and neighboring towns as a mark of respect to your new Bishop. I wish to thank you cordially for this mark of your prayer I offered up seemed to be a practi-cal one. The erection of this church is a big work for the small congregation and it will tax your utmost strength. I am sure not one of you will begrudge to put by weekly or monthly a certain amount to show your love for A'mighty God. Whatever priest may be here will never be satisfied to let the church remain at it is but will want to do more to show his as it is, but will want to do more to show his love of Ged. It is love of Christ that appeals to you to lay aside an offering to the new church of St. Joseph. For God's honor and glory do what you can. It will bring blessings here and hereafter. It will bring blessing to the soul. You may be poor, you may rich, but as long as you have God's grace, all other things are of little consequence. I lask God to touch your hear, and help you finish your work at may not be many months before I shall be invited to be present at the dedication of this church and the first mass. I ask nothing better than to see religion spreading. In my prayers and masses I shall commend you to God and ask Him to make me a true Shepherd over all, that we may meet together at the feet of the

After the exercises were over the different societies marched down town and dis-banded. The Canton societies returned over the Cleveland and Canton arriving here about 8:30 o'clock. Many returned over the Ft. Wayne reaching Canton at

COURT HOUSE NEWS.

An Injunction Against the Street Rail-Way Company-Other Matters of Much

Business is quite active in the court house today. A number of new cases have come in and there seems to be a boom in the line of applications for divorce. Lydia E. Barnbart of Canton wants a divorce from Pius Barnbart who is now doing service as a convict in the Pennsylvania penitentiary at Philadel-phia, having been sent up for two years from Dallastown. Mrs. Barnhart states that she was married to the defendant at Hartville but at the time he had another wife living at Dallastown, Pa. One child was born of the second marriage. She asks for a divorce, the custody of the child and the restoration of her maiden name of Lydia E. Dickerhoff.

SHE WOULD NOT COOK. John Behler wants a divorce from his better half, Jessie F, Behler. He says they were married in 1889 but that she would never stay at home as a wife should. Indeed, he asserts she was never at home more than three months at a time and when she was there she absolutely refused to do the cooking or to perform work of any kind. He also declares that in December 1891 she went to Alliance and committed adultery with a man at that place and that she is now supposed to be in Pittsburg.

ANOTHER MARRIAGE A FAILURE. Viola Odell Smith does not find married life to be as pleasant as she anticipated, and she wants to be separated legally from Clarence F. Smith. The couple live at West Brookfield, and have only been married about three years. Plaintiff avers that in 1890 her husband celebrated the that in 1890 her husband celebrated the Fourth of July by assaulting and striking her, and that he threatened to kick her out of the house. She says that since then he has abused her and neglected her when she was sick, until she has been compelled to seek a home other than under his roof. The defendant has some property, and Judge McCarty granted an injunction restraining him from disposing property, and stage alcounty granted an injunction restraining him from disposing of it until the wife has had a chance to secure alimony. She also wants her maiden name of Viola Odell Gladdis restored.

The Cincinnati Brewing Co, have commenced suit in Common Pleas Court against Charles Specht, the man who was arrested a few days ago at Canal Fulton on an unsavery charge, for $384 for mer chaudise furnished.

STREET RAILWAY INJUNCTION.

Margaret Heisler through her atorneys Pease, Baldwin & Young on Saturday evening about 5 o'clock commenced suit in common pleas court against the Can-tou-Massillon Electric Railway Co., Conton-Massillon Electric Railway Co., Con-tractor Dresbach and county commis-sioners, in which she asked for an injunc-tion to stop them from going on with the grading for the street railway between the two cities in front of her property. She sets forth in her petition that she owns land along the Massillon road upon which she has a residence and out-buildings and and that she has always had free and easy access from the Massillon road to her property. She now declares however that the work now going on bids fair to damage her seriously in her rights. She says the expectation of the Street Car Co., is to make a cut from ten to twelve feet in is to make a cut from ten to twelve feet in front of her place and she asked that they be enjoined from going on with the work until they made a full payment to her in money for all damages she was likely to suffer.

The case was brought up before Judge McCarty and he allowed a temporary in-junction until o'clock this afternoon when a final hearing of the case is to be given. PROBATE COURT.

The following persons were granted icense to wed in Probate court today:

A COUNTRY MEETING HOUSE.

May Be Built Well and for Little Money. [Copyright, 1892, by American Press Associa

In small villages or country districts where the representatives of the various religious sects are comparatively few in numbers, the expense of building a church for each denomination would be too great, The best way is to unite all forces and build a common meeting house, which may be used for religious services, lectures or

The cuts here shown represent the ground clan and two elevations of an attractive esign for a country meeting house, which will comfortably seat about 200 people. It will be noticed that the rostrum or plat form end is semicircular in plan. This has several advantages. The greatest of these is that such a contour improves the acoustic properties and the exterior and interior appearance of the building. The foundation walls are of stone, two feet thick, laid up dry within one foot of the top, and in lime mortar above the ground. The chimney is of hard brick. The building above the foundation walls is framed and securely braced, the roof being supported by open timber trusses which correspond in design to the timber work of the front gable.

The side walls and roof are sheathed with tongued and grooved stuff, and the whole is covered with waterproof paper. The side walls are clapboarded, the gables and roof shingled; the floor is of tongued and grooved yellow pine. The side walls and ceilings inside are sheathed with 14x93 North Carolina pine, tongued and grooved The platform and reading desk are of yel low pine; the seats are of white pine ash trimmings, all left natural color of the wood. The front doors are of white pine grained to imitate light oak.

REAR ELEVATION. One of the rooms in front may be used as study, the other as a library or reading A robing room may be formed behind the chancel arch, on the right side of the platform, by means of a simple screen The building is heated by means of a large stove, with a sheet iron jacket placed around the cast iron fire pot. This, to be but is certainly inexpensive and very ef fective. By a little extra expense some d gree of ventilation may be obtained by building the smoke flue of vitrified earther drainpipe and constructing a larger flue of brick work around it. The heat from the smoke pipe will cause the air to rise in the flue, and consequently gently change the air in the auditorium. The opening which exhausts the foul air from the room should be placed either in the floor or side walls, low down, and be provided with a register, which may be opened or closed at pleasure. The windows behind the platform are placed higher than those in the sides and are glazed with tinted cathedral glass of soft and pleasing colors, which give a pretty effect from the interior. The windows on the side of the auditorium may be glazed with ordinary glass if the expense of colored glass is too large. The windows in front should be colored leaded glass.

The water from the roof is conducted to a cistern by means of tin or galvanized from should be of a sintecolor; all other exterior wood and metal work painted white. This building can be erected for $2,000 to $2,000. D. W. King.

An example of the cunning of gulls was beeved at Tacoma, when several alighted water for a long time, with the submerged sides thick with barnacles. One was a big gray fellow, who seemed to be the captain. He walked to a particular log, stood on one side of it close to the water and then uttered peculiar cries. The other gulls came and perched on the same side of the log, which, under their combined weight, rolled over several inches. The gulls, step by step, kept the log rolling until the barnacies showed above the water. The birds picked eagerly at this food, and the log was not abandoned until overy bernacie had been COURT ASSIGNMENT.
